ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

Methods for caching rasterized image data are provided. A representative method includes: receiving image data; searching for rasterized image data that corresponds to the image data; if the rasterized image data corresponding to the image data is not found during searching; rasterizing the image data to form rasterized information; and storing the rasterized information. Systems, devices, computer readable media and other methods are also provided.